

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

Rules of Conduct

All IBOs in good standing are welcome and encouraged to use the Business Center. In order to protect our IBOs, as well as the reputation of our brands, we must all act in accordance with the Amway™ Rules of Conduct.

Who can use the Amway Business Center?

All IBOs in good standing may use the Business Center.

How much does it cost to visit?

There is no cost for IBOs or their prospects to visit the Amway Business Center.

What training and education programs are available?

Regularly scheduled Amway training sessions will be posted on the Training and Events tab on this site.

What do I need to bring when I visit?

Please have your IBO number and identification with you when visiting the Business Center. If you are hosting a meeting or prospecting session, please ensure you bring your own presentation material.

Are products available for purchase on site?

Yes, a limited number of SKUs will be available at the Business Center and are subject to availability. We reserve the right to limit the quantities of product sold. iPads will be available for placing regular orders for products unavailable at the Center or in excess of the quantities sold at the Center. Shipment of product will be to either your address or your customers' address.

Can orders be fulfilled here?

The Business Center has been designed and developed to support IBOs business building efforts. The Center is not to be used as a "ship to" location for regular IBO orders.

Can I return products at the Business Center?

No. All product returns, unless they are same day return and exchanges, should follow the normal product return policies. The Business Center is not set up to function as a Service Center and will not be processing product returns.

Is there parking available?

Parking spaces are available at Citi Field®. While parking is free on non-game days, game day and event parking is subject to normal Citi Field game day parking fees and policies. Go to www.mets.com for prices and more information.